

Creekwood Middle Teacher Jan York is awarded FamilyTime Woman of Achievement Award for Community Service

At their annual fundraising gala, the FamilyTime center announced their Women of Achievement award recipients to a crowd of over 500 packed into the ballroom at the Sheraton Hotel near Intercontinental Airport in Houston.

Creekwood Middle School Teacher Jan York was honored with a Woman of Achievement award for Community Activist. Each year FamilyTime recognizes women in the community who have made a difference. The FamilyTime Women of Achievement honorees are role models to the many women FamilyTime serves.

"I feel as though I'm accepting this honor WITH a lot of fine kids, great supportive staff, parents and a principal who completely encourages all our efforts," said Jan. "No one accomplishes what we've been able to alone."

"I see those students who have been active at Creekwood go on to be leaders of projects at the high school level, and I'm so proud of their commitment," said Jan. "They come to me with a caring spirit and learn how to plan and execute a project that teaches others and benefits a cause. It's a joy. It's rewarding for everyone. And, it makes education meaningful and lasting."
