The Coping Strategies Challenge

Coping strategies (or coping skills) are the activities we do to help us handle strong emotions, like feeling angry, frustrated, sad, or worried. Everyone goes through those emotions from time to time! It's completely normal. You might feel angry or frustrated when something doesn't go your way. You could feel sad when you miss a friend or family member. You might even feel worried when you have a big game or activity coming up. In order to manage those feelings, we use coping strategies.

You probably use many coping strategies already, whether you know it or not! Examples of healthy coping strategies might be listening to music, taking a quick walk, thinking positive thoughts, deep breathing, or coloring. These are activities that can help you bring your emotions back to a calmer and happier state.

It's extremely important to note that every person has their own coping strategies that work best for them. One person might need to take a walk or move when they are feeling frustrated, while someone else does better when they are reading or coloring. We're all unique individuals, so it makes sense we have different strategies that work for each of us.

Another important point is that you have to practice new strategies when you are calm in order to use them effectively when you're upset. Again, it's all about finding what works best for YOU and practicing it until it's second nature. That way, when you are feeling angry, worried, sad, or any other strong emotion, you'll be able to use your coping strategies and get yourself back on track.

This brings us to our Coping Strategies Challenge! For 30 days, we're going to be practicing a new strategy every single day. This will help us learn new coping strategies. Remember to be open-minded about trying new strategies. Not every strategy will work well for you, and that's okay! What's important is that you give it a try and notice how it makes you feel. You might be surprised at the strategies you end up loving the most!

Each day you will:

- Try a new coping strategy! Some activities might need more time than others.
- Respond and reflect about that coping strategy.
- Check off your coping strategy on your calendar.
